SOVIET FORCES INFLECT CRUSHING BLOW ON Nazis Suffer Defeat in Ukraine

Thousands Of Troops Wiped Out

By The Canadian Press
Russia's Ukraine armies were reported today to have inflicted a crushing defeat on German troops caught in a trap near Novocherkassk, 25 miles northeast of Rostov-on-Don, while the German high command claimed that Axis invasion forces had opened a new big-scale offensive.

Then, the Soviet news agency, said the Germans lost thousands of men, 15 tanks, 272 trucks and many guns in the Novocherkassk battle.

The Nazi drive in that sector has been stopped. The added a German commander pictured the Nazi armies as lurching forward in "new and successful" attacks, but the Russians said they had smashed attempts to pierce Soviet lines on the north anchor of the Moscow defense area as well as in the Ukraine.

A Nazi military spokesman claimed German bombers rained both Moscow and Leningrad during the night and left spreading wreckage in the Red capital.

A Nazi bulletin reported 10,000 Russian prisoners taken, 100 tanks and 171 tanks destroyed during the past three days.

SOVIET SUMMARY
Soviet front-line magazines said two German infantry regiments, supported by tanks and armored cars, had driven off with bloody losses in repeated attempts to storm across the outer Volga river in the Kalinin sector, 80 miles north of Moscow, and the Red Army command gave this general summary of the nearly five-month-old struggle:

Our troops are beating off the enemy attacks and destroying equipment and annihilating the conqueror of the Germans.

On the southern (Ukraine) front, the Russians said Mikhail Semenov's German troops had captured a number of villages and advanced to within 15 miles of the city in the fiercely-contested battle sector around Kozlov-on-Don.

Soviet accounts declared that Field Marshal Von Kleist's southern German army were suffering severe casualties in attempts to make "rapid gains" in the Donets basin.

TROOPS EVACUATED
In the Crimea campaign, the German command announced that German bombers attacked Russia's Black Sea naval base at Sevastopol, blasting docks, munitions dumps and a ship in the harbor, but there was no indication of a direct land assault against the stronghold.

The HBC said Russian troops in the Korch sector had been "safely evacuated to the Caucasus, along with their complete equipment and war material."

VICHY SWINGS CLOSER TO AXIS Report Weygand Is Coupled Figure In Shakeup Of British High Command

CHANGES ANNOUNCED

Gen. Brooke Will Head Imperial General Staff

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(CP)—The war office announced today that Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, commander-in-chief of the home forces, will replace Gen. Sir John Dill as chief of the imperial staff on Dec. 25.

The appointment of Gen. Brooke brings to the post of professional head of the army a specialist in mechanized, armor and anti-air defense. He has since his present command, of the 11th Armoured Division, since July 26, 1940. He is 54 years old.

DEPT. FOR ROMANY
Gen. Dill, who is 60, was appointed field marshal and governor-designate of Bombay, to take office when the term of Sir Roger Lloyd-Luxmoie expires.

Gen. B. C. P. Paget, 54, who served 14 months in the ranks in the first Great War before, he obtained a commission, was appointed to succeed Gen. Pownall as vice-chief of the imperial general staff.

Gen. P. L. Montgomery, 54, was named to succeed Gen. Paget as commander-in-chief of the home forces.

Other appointments were announced in a general reorganization of the high command which continued the recent trend of bringing into the key positions.

A SHIFT of power apparently has occurred in France and a clique favorable to full collaboration with Germany is in the saddle.

This is the interpretation to be placed on the removal of Gen. Weygand from command of the French colonies in Africa. German pressure alone, although it was strong, was not responsible. Back of it lies a story of internal political intrigue, agreed and a struggle for power.

Since resistance has made it difficult to get a clear picture of the political situation in Vichy, but enough information has been furnished to indicate the trend of events.

NEW STRONG MAN
The Weygand affair indicates that Pierre Puchet, young minister of interior, is the new strong man in the Vichy government and that Pierre Laval, spouse of collaboration with Germany, will join forces with him.

Marshal Henri Philippe Pétain undoubtedly will remain head of the state, but Puchet either will replace Pétain or will share the duties of director of affairs, or will share power equally with him. Puchet has won a victory in the dismissal of Pétain and, therefore, has taken over the reins of power.

Weygand, who had the support of Pétain and through Pétain, the support of Darlan, it must have taken strong influence to persuade Pétain to remove him.

IF HELP TO BE REALLY EFFECTIVE Lend Lease Writer Discovers Handicaps To Be Overcome To Deliver Supplies To Chinese Forces

This is the second of six articles by Leland Stowe on the present state of the Burma Road, "most significant highway of our day."—EDITOR.

By LELAND STOWE

KUNMING, South China.—(By Clipper)—(CDN)—At Mangshi the Burmese and Indian chauffeurs turn over their trucks to Chinese drivers. Here on the second day of our trip we encountered a demonstration of why it's such a terrific task to push traffic over the Burma Road up to its potential maximum.

If American aid to China is to become really effective, this winter three times as much Lend Lease materials must leave Mangshi and actually be delivered in Kunming as the combined total tonnage of Chinese government and purely commercial cargoes previously in transit.

Leland Stowe To triple the strictly governmental and war material traffic over the whole length of China's lifeline would be possible, according to the American transportation experts, if the American government could get the American-Indian-DeHavilland combination. Nevertheless, it's a colossal job in its own right, practice and theory.

EXCLUSIVE
which have become established over three years of the Burma Road operation.

ALL TAKES TIME
Moreover, with the best will in the world, many things can only be accomplished slowly. In this primitive South China area, first-class mechanics, chauffeurs and technical operators can't be produced from raw material overnight. Under such a wide variety of handicaps the wonder is that as much governmental cargo has traversed the road in the past, even though it could have been much larger if Lend Lease materials had been applied months ago.

Last May, when John Earl Baker was appointed American manager of the Burma Road, most observers said traffic could at least be doubled within a year—providing Baker was given such authority as to be able to get the highway. In practice Baker never obtained anything like that amount of authority, and it is doubtful if it could be improved but slightly.

Today Gen. Yu Pei-feng has been designated by Marshall Chiang Kai-shek to put the American commitment on the road. This order having been given in late August. Whether Gen. Yu exercises a "cautious" authority in reorganizing the road or finds his efforts limited on important points, it is based on important points, it is based on important points. Increased realization of the urgency for reform, and certainly Marshall Chiang is heartily dedicated to it.

REVEALS HANDICAPS
Mangshi revealed some of the normal handicaps to us. Early that morning the drivers from Burma turned over the first, new American station wagon to representatives of the Chinese army forces. Scheduled here each station wagon must take on at least one 300-pound drum of gasoline in addition to its load of six big tires. Some of the new equipment runs because they are new, but the cars that have been used here have had their oil changed and are in good shape.

Even without the loading to be done this night take six hours for a caravan of 25 machines. Without any night crews to lead the drums and reshuffle the line under the houses, it looked like a two-day delay in Mangshi (incidentally, the worst malaria center on the road).

But having been held up a week back at Lashio by rain in five days it is hardly possible. A most common moderate Chinese air force could keep us in the running by ordering them to fly over the mountains and drop the big heavy drums there. The big heavy drums were tough things for three or four small Chinese soldiers to hoist into the trucks. Then ensued a great debate about where the drums should be placed to keep them from rolling. The two rear seats of the wagon had to be taken out and packed at all various angles several times. In short, three hours were gone before the three machines were ready—yet that was wonderful compared to about 48 hours for the others.

ENDLESS CURVES
At noon we were off on our first end-of-the-road journey. We started on a narrow, winding road and soon found it was a real test of the driver's skill. The road was so narrow that we had to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road was so winding that we had to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road was so winding that we had to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

When a truck ahead of us came to a stop, we had to wait. The road was so narrow that we had to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road was so winding that we had to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road was so winding that we had to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—(CP)—With developments at Tokyo and Washington apparently pushing the Far Eastern situation toward a crisis, Canadian officials Tuesday night maintained a policy of watchful waiting.

In the event of war in the Pacific area, Canada's course is considered a foregone conclusion. This country will be ranged alongside Great Britain and the United States.

Informed circles in Ottawa were not hopeful of a successful outcome of the conference now under way in Washington between the two great powers. They felt that the Japanese government, seeking a settlement of points of difference between Japan and the United States, might be able to get the conference in progress they set the somewhat wary proposition of a cabinet minister in the Japanese parliament at Tokyo.

COAST DEFENCES
The impression here is that Japan, if it had not already done so, would rapidly get into a position from which it could not withdraw without "losing face."

Over a period of many months special measures have been taken to strengthen Canada's East Coast defenses. Many of them were taken in the early days of the war. The Canadian government has been working on the defense of the coast since the Japanese parliament at Tokyo.

Naval dispositions in the Pacific have been a matter of great concern to the Canadian government. The Canadian government has been working on the defense of the coast since the Japanese parliament at Tokyo.

ALASKA AIRWAY
The Alaska airway, the chain of landing fields across western Canada which was started last winter, is believed well on the way to completion. It is believed that the airway will be completed by the end of the year.

The arrival of a contingent of Canadian troops in the Far East is expected to be a significant event. The Canadian government has been working on the defense of the coast since the Japanese parliament at Tokyo.

It is also regarded as a diplomatic triumph for Canada that it has been able to obtain a share of the common fund of defense against aggression.

depression the next stretch of flooring. The bridge shimmers for two-thirds of a mile. No other way to describe it. So our station wagon takes the bumps and we make it to the top of the hill.

UPWARD 3,500 FEET
Now we are beginning to get a view of the mountain. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

Our Chinese driver, who is a very good driver, is taking us up the mountain. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

They learned to drive that way and today they are driving us up the mountain. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

DRIVERS ARE TOUGH
Burma Road drivers are tough and experienced. They have to be able to handle the most difficult conditions. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

It is the driver's hand that is the key to the success of the Burma Road. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic. The road is so steep that we have to be careful of the oncoming traffic.

BEATIN' THE BLITZ

Looking Over

by JACK KELLY

TWO items on today's "airing" of sport news open interesting possibilities when you put them side by side and project them on to the post-war stage.

On the next page, Bill Cunningham's column gives a graphic example of how sport and army migrations in the U. S. are breaking down old prejudices and opening out microcosmic life needed to acquaint the country into seeing that viewed with each other with either suspicion.

In New York some 300 sport leaders are now working on plans for Pan-American games to be held in Buenos Aires from November 21 to December 8 next. This big round-up is aimed at giving all the Americas a better chance to get acquainted with each other.

Now I think the kernel of the idea is sound, but it is not being given a chance to amount to anything. The number of citizens from different American countries who can possibly meet and benefit from such games is too infinitesimal to even bother about—a criticism that also holds good for the ponderous Olympic games. The only persons who benefit are a few lucky athletes and officials.

Furthermore, I have very grave doubts about the friendship developing power of sport when carried on as an international competition. It is all right to talk grandly about five atom-bombers, but you know as well as I that to be defeated before the eyes of the world in international competition leaves a sting and some grains of resentment. On the surface, such Pan-American games would be conducted with every evidence of friendly rivalry yet at the same time there would be a lot of friction developing.

Shall We Make Monkeys or Friends?

THIS isn't cynicism. It's just one of those real facts that we will never get into in ignoring what we have got ourselves in from through acting on pleasant platitudes instead of getting down to actual facts only as they may be.

Pan-American sport events are excellent, but they should be nothing more than informal exhibition tours with the sole object of making friends and not of making some South American athlete look like a monkey and U. S. athletes die to German athletes in the Berlin Olympics and slumped the Nazis before the entire world. The time had come to them of course for looking up that chinkish tribe about a pure Aryan race, but just the same it didn't change their minds or make them like Americans any better.

Now that the wrenching job has been done, let's start building. Let's get the kernel of that idea we started talking about and develop it.

Roosting Ships and Idle Sailors

WHEN this war is over, Canada and the United States will have an over-supply of ships tied up rusting in harbours, sailors waiting the streets looking for food, great areas of fuel waiting to be used and millions of folk looking for a job.

The federal governments of Canada and the United States will own those ships, will have thousands of idle navy personnel. Okay, why not use them to the best possible advantage to build international understanding and good will?

Let us proposition South American republics thusly: We will send down a ship load of our citizens to your country if you will provide them transportation and living accommodations at rock bottom prices and give them every facility to get acquainted with your people for a couple of months. In return we will bring back a shipload of your people to Canada and show them our country and our people on the same basis, returning them to you when they are ready.

Pete Smith from Painted Post could see South America and learn how to square things for little more than the cost of a used jalopy. Instead of being a guy who thought, acted and voted with his own little bell in mind, he would be at least conscious of the magnitude and complexity of the problems that must be solved to assure lasting world peace and prosperity.

What Is It Worth to You?

WHAT if it did cost the federal government a few hundred dollars a head to get this type of citizen? Don't you think peace and prosperity are worth it? Don't you think Hitler ever would have conceived his crazy notion of world conquest if he had travelled extensively, learned how other people thought and actually seen the tremendous forces that might be massed against him as they now are? They say he never was outside of Germany and Austria before the war.

Both international goodwill and peace would be the result in all countries. South America was mentioned merely as an example.

You will probably put this down with a sigh and the moral comment that it is a nice dream but quite impossible. The only reason it is impossible is because you and the majority of Canadians are not willing to insist that a few worthwhile men be made of things that are rotting on our hands.

Of course private transportation companies will holler bloody murder, but if you figure the right of a few fortunate individuals to make profit is more sacred than your right to see a little something of the rest of this great world of ours, you are more sacred than the building of lasting peace, more important than the education of the men and women whose sweat and blood keeps the country of ours ticking—why then don't give it a second thought.

If we can find enough men to have ourselves out of the rut of thinking in terms of cost-against-economies, we'll find that for over two decades we have been living the sort of life we dream of instead of the present nightmare of war, want and fear of the future.

Syl Apps Leads N.H.L. In Scoring
MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Centre Syl Apps of Toronto still out points goal scorers in the National Hockey League scoring seven goals in last night's game. Apps picked up two goals and one assist against Rangers to boost his count to seven points.

Six players are tied in second place with six points each. Gordie Drillon of Leafs and Lynn Patrick, Rangers, both have four goals and two assists, while Detroit's Don Gross has three goals and as many assists.

Another Red Wing, Syd Abel, and Neil Colville, Rangers, have similar counts of two goals and four assists, with Werns of Detroit rounding out his six-point total on one goal and five assists.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—(CP)—George Rivers, British Columbia athlete who starred with Montreal Canadiens and Vancouver Canucks, was seriously injured in an auto accident Nov. 16. His mother, Mrs. Mary Rivers, was informed Tuesday by cable from the Air Ministry.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Several former Illinois gridiron stars are mentioned as possible successors to Bob Zupke as head Illinois football coach as the University's board of trustees looks cognizant of his surprise resignation and named Doug Mills permanent director of athletics.

The trustees, admittedly as surprised as anyone by the decision of the 32-year-old mentor to relinquish a post he had held 20 years, deferred final action in which Zupke Monday announced he was quitting after Saturday's Illinois Northwestern game and thereby launched off a round of speculation on his successor.

There has been one of those mentioned and it was known Zupke favored him for the post. In naming him permanent athletic director, effective next Sept. 1, however, the trustees recommended he give up his assistant football coaching duties. After today's session, Mills said he had no thought of succeeding Zupke and the field apparently was wide open.

Don Peden, who has been highly successful as football coach at Ohio University, was listed as a possible choice.

Now that the wrenching job has been done, let's start building. Let's get the kernel of that idea we started talking about and develop it.

ENLARGED DISTRICTS ARE DISCUSSED

Productive Capacity Should Govern Municipal Plan

President Addresses Convention Wednesday: Critical Of Proposal

Productive capacity rather than area should be the basis of revision of municipal districts in the province, Paul I. Farnham, Halifax, president of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts, told delegates in convention at the Macdonald hotel, Wednesday afternoon.

Convention Head

A group of Wednesday 22 accredited delegates and another approximately 200 visitors had already registered to attend the three-day convention, bringing the total to more than 400. Registration was still continuing and all indications point to the largest attendance in the 25 years of the association's history.

Several resolutions regarding the proposed enlarged municipal units are already in hand of the resolutions committee. The resolutions will come up for discussion on Thursday.

Greetings from the city and province were tendered Wednesday morning when Mr. G. C. Bowen, Premier William Abernethy and Mayor John Fry delivered addresses of welcome. N. S. Clarke, Didsbury, vice-president of the association, replied.

Mr. Farnham delivered the presidential address to delegates, receiving nearly 120 municipalities from all parts of the province, as well as several from the United States. He reviewed the work of the association during the past year and outlined in detail the association's negotiations with the provincial government regarding the proposed enlargement of municipal districts.

Mr. Farnham charged that the collecting power of the municipalities has been "deliberately and consistently" weakened by legislation passed at the last session. To add further to the difficulties, taxes were not in fifth place among the liens that could be placed on crops, Mr. Farnham said.

Anniversary Dinner Is Held By Knox United Congregation

Marking the 50th anniversary of the church members of the congregation of Knox United church held an anniversary dinner in the church hall Tuesday evening. Minister of the church, Rev. Elsie G. Turnbull, was chairman.

Guest speaker of the evening was Rev. Daniel Young of First Baptist church, who spoke on "Our Ordained Pastors." He stated that the work of the Christian church had been done by ordinary people, and that there is in the glory of the church.

"In time of war," he said, "there is danger of losing our perspective. We must win the war, but we must also make progress with the work of the Christian church."

The church work, he declared, must be continued as aggressively as it is during peace time. "As long as there is a church," he said, "it will be because of the work of the ordinary people."

Also taking part in the program were Jack Williams, who led the community singing, Thelma Rie, and Delbert Rogers, vocalists, accompanied by Mrs. D. Sims. Rev. Elsie G. Turnbull, minister of the church, who spoke on the early days in Edmonton and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Heywood, who brought greetings from Metropolitan United church. The program concluded with the singing of the national anthem.

In charge of the supper arrangements were members of the Women's Association of the church, and the CGIT girls of the congregation acted as servers.

Funeral Rites Are Held For Hammond Girl

In the quiet of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic cathedral, Wednesday morning, several hundred friends gathered with sorrowing relatives to attend the requiem mass and funeral services for Dorothy Hammond, 18-year-old Edmonton girl, who died Saturday following a stabbing attack.

The requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. A. Boucher, O.M.I., parish priest of St. Joseph's church. His Excellency Rev. J. H. MacDonald, Roman Catholic archbishop of Edmonton, attended the service.

Preceded by Rev. Mother Augustin, P.C.J., Miss Grace Brunton and Stanley Miller, teachers of the deceased girl, 13 girls and boys, students in grades at St. Joseph's school which Dorothy attended, entered the church to attend the service and pay a last tribute to their school chum. Grey nuns from the Marist school where Dorothy died were at the church for the service.

Parents of the girl, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hammond, 3734 17th St., her young brother Bob, and her mother, Mrs. E. Rabin, were at the funeral.

Acting as honorary pallbearers were her class mates, Virginia Zourgenko, Mary McEwen, June Lovette, Bernice Beaton, Christina and Evelyn Smith, all of St. Joseph's school. Also present were Henry and Leo Anderson, George Garrett, Gordon Adkins, Jack Hinchberger and Jack Hunter.

Rev. T. Green sang the requiem mass, while the young friends of the family and sympathetic citizens attended the services in the filled church.

After the graveside, prayers were said by Rev. Father W. A. Reynolds.

On Tuesday afternoon, at least 1,000 persons paid last respects to the girl in the Porter and McGraw funeral home, 1308 17th St., where the intermediate grades at Grandin school were held for the service.
